SPARE TIME

BEN

When I left school five years ago, I said to my self : « that's that ! No more learning for me. Now I can enjoy myself in the evenings. » But about a year ago the boss remarked : « we're going to get a computer in the near future. » Was it a hint ? I simply don't know. Anyway, I decided to go to evening classes. I'm quite an expert on computers now and, you know, I actually enjoy studying !

EVE

I haven't much interest in studying. To be honest, I don't like reading very much , except for magazines and that sort of thing. Just light reading, that is, to pass the time. But I enjoy TV. Not that I watch everything. In fact, I choose my programmes very carefully. I think I learn more this way than I did at school.

TED

I am a very active sort of person- I simply love doing things. That's why I enjoy sport so much. I mean, actually playing. I rarely watch it on TV, but I read quite a bit about it. I'm even interested in the history of sport. I don't have much time for anything else, except that I sometimes preactise dancing.

I usually take the train to go to Birmingham. However, yesterday I (take) my car. While I was driving my car in, a policeman stopped me. He wanted (check) the papers which I forgot at home.

I was therefore obliged to give him a 30-(pound) note to pay the bill. Things went even worse when I found myself waiting in lines of cars.

I wasted 1 hour in the traffic jam. It was a horrible day. For all these reasons I will take only the trains because they are (cheap) than cars.
